

Problem statement:

Many grocery stores exist, but many people have trouble accessing these stores.

Details:

Areas where people do not have proper access to food are called food deserts, food swamps and food insecurity. This is usually found in rural areas or areas where there is lack of public transportation to serve an entire community.